

Job Title: Lecturer - Criminology and Criminal Justice
Job ID: 604874

Northern Arizona University's Criminology and Criminal Justice Department invites applications for at least one lecturer appointment to teach on the Flagstaff Campus beginning August 2020. These positions are teaching focused, non-tenure eligible, and are expected to be continuing with potential for promotion. Renewal is contingent upon successful completion of a probationary year, effective performance, and department needs. The teaching load for a lecturer is 4-4 for the academic year. This position is not eligible for sponsorship now or in the future.

Job Description

The Criminology and Criminal Justice Department oversees a BS in Criminology and Criminal Justice, a minor in Law, Rights and Justice, and an M.S. in Applied Criminology. Our CCJ graduates are critically informed citizens, who value diversity and social justice, and use this knowledge to advance the cause of justice. There are 24 full-time faculty members with diverse teaching and research interest, involving, but not limited to : Human Rights and Global Justice; Native American and Indigenous Justice; and Community, Health and Justice. For further information, see our website at: <http://www.nau.edu/sbs/ccj>. This appointment is a valued position with full participation in faculty governance and service. This is primarily a teaching position, corresponding to four classes per semester (4-4 for the academic year). The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice seeks candidates who will contribute to department efforts to advance programs, teaching, and learning.

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Criminology, Criminal Justice, Sociology or a closely related field at time of appointment and one-year university teaching-related experience. Candidates must be willing to teach core courses required for the BS in Criminology and Criminal Justice.

Preferred Qualifications

- At least one year of university teaching as the instructor of record and evidence of any of the following: effective classroom teaching; innovative approaches to instruction, curriculum design; effective student success support.
- A demonstrated ability to teach from among the following courses required for the BS in Criminology and Criminal Justice: Introduction to Crime and Justice, Criminology, Investigating Difference (intensive writing course focused on diversity), and contribute as needed to the delivery of the CCJ curriculum.

- Evidence of interest in teaching and community engagement in social justice and critical issues.
- Evidence of potential to contribute to college and department student success goals.
- Demonstrated ability to contribute to diversity, equity and inclusion goals of the college.

How to Apply

To apply for this position, please visit nau.jobs, follow the “Faculty and Administrator Openings” link, locate vacancy 604874, and then “Apply” at the bottom of the page.

General Information

Northern Arizona University has a student population of 31,073, including approximately 23,000 on its main campus in Flagstaff and the remainder at more than 20 locations statewide and online.

Committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment, NAU has earned a solid reputation as a university with all the features of a large institution but with a personal touch, with a faculty and staff dedicated to each student’s success. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes.

While our emphasis is undergraduate education, we offer a wide range of graduate programs and research. Our institution has carefully integrated on-campus education with distance learning, forming seamless avenues for students to earn degrees.

Flagstaff has a population of about 70,000, rich in cultural diversity. Located at the base of the majestic San Francisco Peaks, Flagstaff is 140 miles north of Phoenix at intersection of Interstate 17 and Interstate 40.

The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

For information about diversity, access and equity at NAU, see the Center for University Access and Inclusion webpage.